D-Grade Final

Tee Off—8:30am

Allen Meyer

Vs

Trevor Williams

Ranking: 1      Right-Handed
Handicap: 22.1      Odds: $1.25

Ranking: 4      Right Handed
Handicap: 25.2      Odds: $4.00

Preview

Allen Meyer will be looking to win his second D-Grade title after finishing runner up last year. The difference is this year, Meyer will be full of confidence after finishing top ranked player and cruising through his semi-final. Williams has certainly improved his game, and has made the rare foray out for three Saturdays to ensure he qualifies for the championships. He should be chock full of confidence after knocking off Lee Bateman then John Gregory in the quarter and semi-finals. This will be another Tarpeena vs Glencoe stoush, with the money favoured to end up in spud country. Meyer certainly knows his strengths and plays to them. He claims he knows how to use an iron, but not the one inside the house according to his family. Williams will no doubt spend plenty of time mowing and slashing rocks in the rough to ensure his ball gets a smooth lie. However, he will have his work cut out trying to win this one.

Editor's tip: Meyer 6/5

Open Final

Tee Off—9:00am

John Mossop

Vs

Jeremy Briggs

Ranking: 4      Right-Handed
Handicap: 9.3      Odds: $1.95

Ranking: 7      Right Handed
Handicap: 11.4      Odds: $1.80

Preview

Although these two could be mistaken for twins, their games are poles apart. Briggs is a powerful hitter and when on song, his short game is as good as anyone. Every hole can be made in regulation, it just depends on which fairway it is coming in from. Mossop is usually fairly solid, and has one of the stronger iron games in the club. He can miss a short putt, particularly when the pressure is on, so I don't think there will be too many gimmes. As long as his game doesn't go missing like the Golf Club steers, he will be in the hunt. Even with good odds, Mossop couldn't afford to bet on himself, as the upcoming wedding has put on a drain on the finances. One bet is for sure, the golf attire of these two will be unique, with all the colours and patterns on show. The absence of seven time winner, Jock Agnew, due to a viagra related shoulder injury has certainly opened the gate for one of these two to open their championship account. This could be the catalyst for the next Golf Club championship dynasty.

Editor's tip: Mossop 4/2

B-Grade Final

Tee Off—8:50am

Sir Peter Walker Vs George J Kidman

Ranking: 1 Right-Handed
Handicap: 12.8 Odds: $2.20

Ranking: 2 Right Handed
Handicap: 12.1 Odds: $1.60

Preview: This will be a cracker of a game to watch as the number 1 and 2 ranked players have made their way to that one day in October, and it could definitely go either way. It could be defined as Power vs Precision, as Kidman's long game will be an advantage if he gets it right. If he doesn't, Walker will be breathing right down his neck, waiting for any slip ups. The Patron Saint of Penola GC has played the course a bit, and pars for him are like finding a well bred Merino in SA, they're everywhere. Kidman's greatest enemy is himself, and as long as. "Bloody hell, George..." doesn't prefix his sentences, he should be in good shape. Kidman to win in after a tight tussle. Editor's tip: Kidman 4/3

Stop Press: I have just been made aware that it has been written in the constitution that it is a breach of by-law 17b.1 part ii that declares, "defeating the life member and club patron in a championship final is prohibited."

Editor's new tip: Walker in a forfeit

C-Grade Final

Tee Off—8:40am

Paul Harmer Vs Bill Cheers

Ranking: 1 Right-Handed
Handicap: 17.2 Odds: $1.90

Ranking: 2 Right Handed
Handicap: 17.6 Odds: $1.90

Preview

Another clash that could go either way. The number 1 and 2 players have not only made their way through to the final, but actually had to win two matches to get there, unlike the B-Grade! Cheers Bill, is one of those players who floats under the radar a bit, generally saving his best golf to Thursdays. He has a pretty strong long game, but his putting would have caused most golfers to change putters, grips, hands or even sports. But Bill persists, and like most Sturt supporters, only gets chirpy when things are going well. Harmer on the other hand is always chirpy, even if things aren't going well. A score of 12 down is usually followed by, "geez I hit the ball well though..." - clearly often, as the score would suggest. However, having Richie Barnes as a mentor has improved his game a little. The result will be determined by Harmer's cheatstick vs Cheers' putter. Editor's tip: Harmer 2/1
